YOU DECIDE WHAT TO SHARE!

• YOU DECIDE WHAT TO SHARE!

Just like in your daily life, you should carefully choose the information you want to share with others and what you don't want. Remember that the data you share can be used to your detriment.

• PEOPLE ON THE INTERNET ARE NOT ALWAYS FRIENDLY

People you meet through social media or apps may not be friendly most of the time. When these people ask you for information such as photo, video, address, school name, you should think very carefully before sharing.

• THE INFORMATION YOU SHARE ON THE INTERNET IS NEVER LOST

Even if you think you deleted it, you should know that nothing you share on the internet will be lost. They may come across differently one day. Therefore, you should not share images and information that you think you will regret later.

• YOU SHOULD GET THEIR PERMISSION BEFORE SHARING OTHERS' PHOTOS

If there are other people in a photo you are going to share, you should get their permission before sharing the photos. These people may not want their photos to be shared.

• YOU MUST BE INFORMED ABOUT PRIVACY SETTINGS AND SECURE PASSWORD

Do not forget that websites, internet-connected toys, game consoles or applications can easily access a lot of information specific to you, such as your location information, photo archive, and contacts.

Doing some research on privacy settings, using strong passwords, and not sharing your personal data unless absolutely necessary will protect you from many dangers.
